SAD SIGHT—Covered with oil and dying, this owl is covered with oil after being extricated from waste oil sump at tank farm on Richfield Road. Bird was taken from oil and attempts made to clean him but he succumbed to the effects of his immersion.

Owl Rescue Effort Fails

Another owl has died as the result of being trapped in a waste oil sump on property on Richfield Road, in Yorba Linda, despite a valiant attempt to save the bird's life.

The owl was rescued from the sump by the children of Chuck Huffman whose complaints brought the situation to light.

They found the owl when they were showing friends the dead birds in the waste oil. He was in up to his head. Advice to clean the owl with detergent and cooking oil helped remove much of the goo.

However, the bird evidently could not stand the shock of the experience and, along with its refusal to eat, died last Wednesday, the day after he had been saved from death in the oil sump.

To dramatize the problem at the oil sump, Mrs. Huffman and her children brought the oil covered owl to Yorba Linda City Hall to show it to city officials.

Building Inspector Ivan Smith reiterated the fact that abatement of the nuisance on the tank farm owned by Walter Nollac of Placentia had been placed in the hands of the City Attorney.

Meanwhile, Planning Director Phil Paxton clarified that the property described in last week's story as being considered for development into residential lots was on the west side of Richfield and was not the property on the east side where the problem exists. However, ownership of both properties lies with the same individuals.

FUHSD OK on Title IX

In June of 1974, the Office for Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare initiated action which ultimately brought into effect Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

In effect, Title IX states that "No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any educational program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

The Fullerton Union High School District is in compliance with Title IX, and as required by the provisions of Title IX, notice of such compliance must be published in all local newspapers.

In addition, the District is an affirmative action employer committed to hiring on the basis of job qualifications for each position, taking into consideration the student population regarding ethnic origin.

Letter Writers Meet

Mrs. Otto (Charline) Berg of Yorba Linda and Mrs. Sherry Hight of Montezuma, Indiana, became pen pals 20 years ago after finding their names in a church youth magazine. This month they met each other for the first time when Mrs. Hight came to California for a visit.

"While we have known each other all of these years, it was exciting being able to talk face to face. It was interesting for us to learn that the other was just as we expected she would be and our friendship has grown deeper," said Mrs. Berg.

During her brief five day trip to Yorba Linda, side trips were taken to Disneyland, Lion Country Safari, Universal Studios, the Queen Mary and Ports-O-Call.

"We plan to see each other again but next time it won't take 20 years to do so," Mrs. Berg promised.

PEN PALS illustrate how they became acquainted when Mrs. Sherry, right, of Indiana visited Mrs. Charline Berg of Yorba Linda.

Attention: Letter Writers

The Star is always happy to receive and welcomes letters from subscribers and readers on subjects of interest to the community which may or may not be reported in this newspaper.

Letters are published when they contain a signature and address of the writer and do not contain libelous or defamatory statements. They are also assigned a publishing priority in relation to the timeliness of the subject. In all cases, letters, as well as other news contributed to this newspaper, are published on a space available basis.

It is to this latter point we call attention. Recently we have received and published letters which have required the use of considerable space to print and have caused us to postpone the publication of news items and photos which we feel are of prime importance.

Thus, we are requesting persons who write letters to the editor to be as brief as possible and, in no event, to exceed two typewritten or three handwritten pages of typewriter sized paper.

This limitation will still allow the letter writer to make his or her point, allow us to publish the letter and still have necessary space available to print prime news and photos. We appreciate your cooperation in this matter.

Local Groups Still Have Say on Airport

Reports circulated during the past week that new federal legislation has been passed providing money for studies of new airports by a private corporation, are not true according to a county counsel study of the law, Ralph Diedrich, chairman of the board of Orange County Supervisors stated this week.

"According to the legal opinion, the new law is aimed at the Secretary of Transportation and directs him to do certain airport studies during the next year," Diedrich outlined.

"County counsel also said that this new law in no way affects any previous requirement of such organization as the Inter-County Airport Authority, the group that is attempting to study the Chino Hills area as an airport location," the supervisor chairman added.

"All the steps required to apply for federal grants for feasibility studies or environmental impact studies still exist the same as before," he stated "and approval of local agencies is still required."

Known as the Airport and Airway Development Act Amendments, the new law was approved in June and instructs the Secretary of Transportation to conduct studies with respect to land bank planning and development for future and existing airports, to the establishment of new major airports and to soundproofing schools, hospitals and public health facilities near airports, Diedrich explained.

The chairman stated also that the law spells out that the Secretary shall consult with planning agencies, airport sponsors and other interested groups and shall report to the Congress one year after the date of enactment which will be in June, 1977.

"In short, the new amendment does not affect any previous laws concerning application for airports and has nothing to do with the planning grant program for airports," Diedrich said.

"Any application for funding for feasibility studies for environmental impact reports still has to go through all the steps and agencies required before this amendment was approved," Diedrich stated.

The Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) and county government will still be involved in such applications the same as in the past," Diedrich concluded.

Antique Store Still Has Woes

The City Council is going to have a second opportunity to overrule a Planning Commission recommendation on an application for an antique store in an existing residence at 4891 Lakeview.

The commission had denied Don and Laurie Fink's bid for a Conditional Use Permit. The Fink's appealed to the council and won. Now the PC has denied the design review on the basis that the submitted plans are "inadequate for review criteria."

The commission directed staff to call this to the attention of the council.

Fink, after consulting with his attorney, turned down a suggestion that the matter be continued by the commission. He objected to the commission's apparent desire that the plans, which he drew himself, contain "more quality."

He indicated he does not want to go to the expense of hiring a licensed landscape architect to execute the

The first month of the new fiscal year, July, saw the city handle building permits with a valuation of $8,694,513. This figure is about $6.6 million more than the previous month and $7.4 million higher than the same month last year. There were 130 building permits for single family homes and 121 for additions to make up the bulk of the 258 total building permits.

Members of the Yorba Linda Rotary Club have been urged to bring their Rotary Ann's to this Friday's luncheon meeting at the Yorba Linda Country Club to enjoy the program presented by Miss Yorba Linda, Laura Jean Oberjuege. She will sing several selections which will allow her voice to demonstrate her three and one-half octaves range. The meeting will begin at 12:15 p.m.

Approximately 74 real estate brokers and sales persons, representing about 20 area firms, have indicated that they will attend the Monday, August 23 Real Estate Seminar sponsored by the City of Yorba Linda. Others are welcome to attend the seminar which begins at 7 p.m. in the Library multi-purpose room.

Yorba Linda City Council Monday night rolled up its collective sleeves and took on the heavies. Round one was with the bees.

Local resident Donald Todd had come before the council over two months earlier to complain of bee-keeping operations near his home.

After being shuttled back and forth between City Council and Planning Commission, Todd's request for restrictions on the activity had come back to the council.

And the council acted.

After hearing Todd and his wife, his neighbors (including one who keeps bees), and a number of amateur and professional bee-keepers all voice their cases, the council voted to amend the city zoning ordinance to permit specifically the keeping of three hives or fewer in RA, RE, and RS zones.

Under the change, residents living in RU zones might keep three or fewer hives if they obtain a conditional use permit (CUP) authorizing same.

Also, the keeping of four or more hives would be allowed in RA, RE, and RS zones subject to acquisition of a CUP.

The keeping of more than three hives would be forbidden in RU zones.

Acknowledging the burden that the usual $150 fee for applying for a CUP would impose on amateur bee-keepers, the council further voted to reduce the amount to a so-far-unspecified figure.

The amendment, offered by Councilman Doug Groot, failed on first ballot due to opposition by members Whit Cromwell and Irwin Fried, who favored restricting bee-keeping in RS and RU zones, and Dale Chaput, who opposed alteration of the present zoning ordinance.

But when a subsequent motion by Chaput to postpone action for six months was defeated 4-1, Chaput re-introduced the Groot measure--which then passed 3-2. Chaput now casting his vote with those of Groot and Mayor Henry Wedaa.

Round two was with the horses.

Under the zoning ordinance, horses may be kept on property zoned RS provided a CUP is first obtained. Developer John Wartin is building a house on a parcel of land at 18562 Oriente Dr. which is zoned RS.

He applied for a CUP to permit the eventual buyers of the property to keep horses.

Many of the neighbors in the area voicing concern over the smells and flies that horses might bring, protested. When the planning commission approved the CUP, they took their case to the city council.

Among them was Awandi Cromwell, who organized circulation of a petition protesting the CUP. Since Mrs. Cromwell is wife to Councilman Cromwell, the latter removed himself from the proceedings, thereby leaving a council of four to contend with the problem and thereby creating still another problem.

After their respective sides had been presented by Mrs. Cromwell and opponents, Wartin, and a couple of adjoining property owners who had no objections to horses, the council tried a vote.

Chaput moved the planning commission's approval be upheld. Groot likewise said he could find no grounds for refusing the CUP.

But Fried dissented, citing the land's proximity to RU-zoned land and lack of access to horse trails. Wedaa concurred, saying that although he personally liked horses, "If we put them in where they aren't wanted, we're defeating ourselves in the end."

The motion failed on a 2-2 vote. Then Wedaa offered a motion that the CUP be denied. This also failed on an identical 2-2 vote.

In response to a question, City Attorney Betsy Strauss observed that if the council was unable to act, the planning commission's approval of the CUP would stand.

Fried now proposed that a CUP be granted for a period of 18 months, allowing two horses only to be kept on the property. If problems arose, the CUP could be revoked at the end of the period.

Wartin said that this would be acceptable. Wedaa objected that this would be unfair to the buyers of the land, but the suggestion passed BEAUTIFICATION AWARD—The home of the James Fergusons on Rio de Plata was one of several in Yorba Linda singled out by the Beautification Committee. Homes and business establishments were cited and winners were given engraved plaques at a City Council meeting. Winners came from seven different sections of the city. The Ferguson property was selected for effective use of steps and planter boxes on a slope from the street to the house. Photos of all winners will be published in this and subsequent editions of the Star.

Letters To The Editor

Answer to Critic

Dear Editor,

On July 28, 1976 you were kind enough to print my letter concerning the rezoning of my property on North Ohio St.

On August 4, 1976 you printed Mr. Dieterle's rebuttal to my letter. I would like to take this opportunity to answer that letter.

When I first saw the rebuttal I was pleased to know that my letter had been read; however, after reading Mr. Dieterle's comments I was very disappointed!

I am a Builder, not a letter-writer. Letter writing does not come easy for me; therefore, I spent considerable time composing my letter in order to get my point across and evidently, I failed!

Mr. Dieterle pointed out that he had to read my letter thru three times, but still he seems to have missed the whole issue! In his letter he did not once refer to my problem with the City Council.

All he did was to attack me personally, and praise the Council as people who can do no wrong. (The typical response of a person when he cannot justify an action is to go around an issue and attack the person raising the question.)

Mr. Dieterle said he came here 15 years ago because he liked the free rural atmosphere. Did he honestly think that nothing would change in that length of time? He also accused me of coming to Yorba Linda to change the General Plan so that I could have a higher density!

The truth is that when I came here five years ago there was no General Plan and the zoning on my property would have allowed 1 1/2 times the units I am asking for now! (These lots would average more than 1/2 acre. Is this what Mr. Dieterle calls high density?)

He also said that I am putting personal desires above the community's welfare; therefore, I wish to point out that I am asking for 12 lots on 6.8 acres, instead of the 4 homes now allowed, but the average size of the lots would be greater than the average of the surrounding lots.

In so doing I would be bringing in a trunk sewer line that would benefit all of the surrounding property owners. How is this a detriment to the City of Yorba Linda?

Mr. Dieterle says, "special interest and special treatment cannot be condoned in the administration of a city", and yet he defends a City Council that does just that!

Why have I not made any progress after obtaining favorable decisions? The favorable decisions are obtained when an application is judged on its merits only. But when outside pressure is exerted by a select few, some of the Council members will change their minds.

How do I know the Council members are thinking about future votes when they render their decisions? It is obvious, when members of the audience stand up and tell them to remember why they worked to help get them elected!

As for my not being a leader, is Mr. Dieterle inferring that only the leaders in this country have the right to justice and equality? Does he mean that we average people have to abide by the "leader's" decisions because we average people are not capable of leadership?

Why does Mr. Dieterle praise the people that were members of the City Council before I came to this city? They were not and are not now on the City Council! Also, what bearing does the Chino Hills Airport have on my requesting equality in property division?

In one paragraph Mr. Dieterle is saying that I lack leadership qualities and in the next paragraph he accuses me of trying to run the city. I wonder if Mr. Dieterle realized that he lives in a high density area!

Yes, that's right! Even though he has the largest lot on his street, (just over 1/2 acre), many of his neighbors have less than 1/2 acre; therefore, the average lot is LESS than the average of the lots I proposed.

Mr. Dieterle lives on a different side of town than I, so I can't understand why he is so concerned, as it would not affect his lifestyle in any way.

In closing, I would like to make one last suggestion:

Before Mr. Dieterle decides to write another letter, perhaps he should seek a quiet place for introspection!

Respectfully,
Don Schug

JAA Thankful

Letter to the Editor

from Placentia/Yorba Linda Jr. All American Football

Dear Sir:

Our organization was recently in a very perplexing situation. We had approximately 300 boys that had to go through physical examinations as part of their qualifications to play JAA youth football.

The problem was because of recent military changes in policy and situations, our usual source of medical physicians and staff from the Fort McArthur Army base were unable to donate their time and services.

Our dilemma came to an abrupt end when the kind and civic minded Dr. Donald Krpan of the Esperanza Hospital Staff donated his valuable time and staff, with the help of Drs. Floyd Wilbur, Dick Strand, Beachley Main and Keith Wintle.

Dr. Krpan's most able staff consists of Abberta Smith, Debbie Welch and Travee Brzycki. Sharon Vinsonhaler was also helping.

Two hundred and seventy four boys went through a most thorough and complete examination.

We would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank this man and his staff for a most valuable contribution to our organization. Without people like Dr. Krpan, volunteer organizations like ours would suffer badly. Again Hats Off and many thanks to Dr. Donald Krpan.

Another Protest

Dear Editor,

Being a parent of two young boys both allergic to bee stings, I can greatly sympathize with Mr. Todd. They are both getting weekly shots for bee stings along with other allergies. If they are stung by a bee, they are to be given a shot and then taken to a doctor or a hospital, which is a worry and an expense.

Because of the proximity of bee hives there was a real problem at Mabel Paine School two years ago. My boys, along with others who were allergic, spent many a recess in the office unable to be out of doors.

Having trouble with allergies and asthma, my sons, and also my father, have been seeing allergists for many years and have never been told honey was of any benefit for asthma or allergies, as the bee keepers reported at the recent Planning Commission Meeting.

For my family and, I believe, many others, bees are a nuisance, a hazard and a constant threat.

To research the seriousness of the matter, may I suggest you read the article "The Sting of Death" in the August 1976 issue of Good Housekeeping magazine.

Sincerely,
Avis Swallow

Police Beat

Saturday, Aug. 14

Brea Police Officer Chet Panique was driving past a construction shed in a field east of Valley View and Orange about 11:30 p.m. Saturday when he saw a fire.

Investigating, he found a bottle alongside the building with a burning rag sticking out the top. Also on fire was a nearby plywood box. He put the blaze out with his car's fire extinguisher.

The bottle, which proved to be filled with gasoline, had apparently been placed beside the shed and set afire. Panique noticed it before serious damage was done, however.

The Molotov cocktail was turned over to Orange County Fire Department investigators.

About the same time, Joseph R. Goldberg, 17301 Minden, Yorba Linda, heard some funny noises outside home.

Looking out the window, he saw three men removing a wheel from his neighbor's car, which was parked in his neighbor's drive. He turned on his front porch light and stepped outside.

Two of the men ran behind some bushes. The third approached. He explained he was stealing the neighbor's wheels because someone had stolen his.

Goldberg told him to beat it. The man agreed. Goldberg called the police.

Roused, the neighbor reported that although he still had his wheels, he was out $6 worth of lug nuts. The would-be thieves escaped.

Friday, Aug. 13

Surveying equipment and other tools valued at $1675 were stolen from the back of a pick-up parked in the drive of Ruben D. Martinez, 5651 Casa Loma, Yorba Linda, in the wee hours of Friday morning. Truck and tools belonged to Martinez's employer.

Tuesday, Aug. 10

Tuesday noon last week Linda Susan O'Leary arrived at her father's home, 18702 Loraine Lane, Yorba Linda, to ride her horse.

Going inside, she noticed that the door leading from the house to the attached garage was damaged. She went into the garage to have a look.

Suddenly a young man came out of the house.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded.

"I live here," O'Leary replied.

"Oh," said the young man.

Then he ran away.

Monday, Aug. 9

Tools valued at $975, comprising a masonry saw, a brick cutter, and an electrical cord, were stolen from a construction site at 4775 Loganna Plaza over the weekend last week.

A "Football Press Day" at the high school or college level is usually an exercise in agony for all concerned. Most coaches are told by their athletic directors and publicists that it is necessary to foster good public relations with the media and will result in reams of free publicity in stories and pictures.

But those assurances do not make the coaches feel any better as the event takes away precious minutes and sometimes hours from practice sessions. The press asks questions which have been posed for centuries and the coaches give the same answers year in and year out. The same photos are taken each year and inevitably, some of the players are upset because the press or the coach feels they are not important enough to have their pictures taken.

But a very unique invitation arrived in the mail the other day for a Football Press Day. It came from Cypress College whose president is Dr. Omar Scheidt of Yorba Linda.

Two hours have been set aside to "allow the press to fill its needs." After the interviews and photo taking the press will be "welcomed to a fun-filled event."

The invitation states: "Coach Lent will welcome you to his new home in the Tennis Estates section of Huntington Harbour in Huntington Beach...He will then pipe you aboard his new boat for cocktails and a cruise around the harbor for a relaxed, informal get-together. Following the cruise he would have a delightful buffet dinner awaiting you back at his home."

"You would then be welcome to stay as long as you like and enjoy the hospitality for all your past help and contributions to Cypress College."

Now there's a college with class. This will happen on a Friday, one of my heavy work days but I am very tempted to work hard a couple of days before and after to take advantage of it.

Round three was with a ghost. Don Schug and Edith Neukom own land south of the city limits and east of Ohio. Together, the two parcels make a triangle.

When the city plan was drawn up, the triangle, along with adjoining property, was zoned RA, which allows maximum development of only 0.7 units per acre.

Trouble was, except for the triangle, the land had already been subdivided under county zoning which allowed greater density.

The late former Mayor George Machado, who supervised preparation of the city plan, later allegedly termed the RA zoning a "mistake" and tried to correct it, changing the zoning to RE, which permits 1.8 units per acre. He failed.

Last June, Schug had plans for subdividing and developing his portion of the triangle. To do so, he needed RE zoning. But the council balked.

Bees...

Nevertheless, some council members opposing zoning to RE indicated at the time that they could agree to re-zoning the land to a 1-unit-per-acre density; however, no such classification existed.

Now the council got a proposal drawn up by Groot to amend the zoning ordinance to create such a classification, to be designated RLD—residential low-density.

Although Groot insisted the measure had not been conceived with any specific property in mind, it had obvious use both in the Schug-Neukom triangle as well as in recent annexations to the east.

Cromwell reiterated his previously expressed disappointment with the way the council had handled the Schug-Neukom question but voted for the proposal.

Chaput, who had previously defended retaining the "rural character" of the area through RA zoning, opposed it.

It passed 4-1.

Planners...

plans.

The planners also elicited from D.H. Brose and Associates an agreement to relocate an oil well tank farm from lot 6 to lot 11 when considering a tentative tract map for a single family residential development on the west side of Richfield, between Yorba Linda and Buena Vista.

Brose plans on developing slightly more than 4.5 acres into 12 lots in the residential suburban (RS) zone.

The application of Rose Drive Friends Church for a conditional use permit to construct a gymnasium and educational units to the existing facility was approved by the commission.

However, final plans for landscaping and the educational units will have to be reviewed by the commission. Light standards for a planned athletic field will be dealt with at the time of design review.

James T. Williams III of 4642 Avocado got a lot of sympathy from individual planners on his request for a variance to keep two horses rather than one on his property.

But, because of the size of his lot, slightly more than 10,000 square feet, his request was denied.

Planners will take a look at the property on which the Mesa-Pacific Corp wants to build three houses on the west side of Plumosa, south of Bastanchury.

A representative of the firm indicated that one of the residences may be two stories. This, said neighbor Charles Beck, would allow the people who live in the two story house to observe him "skinny-dipping" in his pool and the house would eliminate his "Catalina view."

Bike-A-Thon Needs Riders

Lung Associations throughout Southern California will benefit from a Bike-A-Thon conducted by the Independent Order of Foresters with "Happy Days" star Ron Howard as Honorary Chairman, it was announced by Carol Kawanami, president of the Lung Association of Orange County.

There are two phases for the event, a local ride by entrants of all ages scheduled for Saturday, August 21, with 20 long distance riders representing IOF Courts traveling 500 miles from Sunday, August 22 to 28.

Starting point for the distance course will be Woodley Park in the Hansen Dam area of San Fernando Valley, and finish will be in the Santa Monica area after biking through the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, and San Diego.

In Orange County, the Northern IOF Court, located in Anaheim, is sponsoring a local ride of about 20 miles that will begin at Rio Vista Avenue and Ball Road in Anaheim and will follow a course down the Santa Ana River Equestrian Bike Trail to Suburbia Park (near the San Diego Freeway) and back the same route. The starting time will be 10:00 a.m. on August 21.

Funds will be raised to support Lung Association programs in community service, health education and medical research from pledges by merchants and individuals per mile for the entrant of their choice both in the distance and shorter one-day event.

Information regarding Bike-A-Thon entrance procedure and support may be obtained by calling a Lung Association office at 835-LUNG or the Northern IOF Court office at 991-4500.

Benefit Horse Show Planned

In 1954, the horsemen of Orange County banded together to put on the first March of Dimes benefit horse show. The show was held in Fullerton at the "Red Barn", just west of Harbor Blvd. and Valencia Mesa Dr., now the home of a shopping center complex.

Twenty-two years later, this traditional horse show, one of the oldest in the country returns to Fullerton. The March of Dimes Benefit Horse Show will be held September 11 and 12 at the Fullerton Recreational Riders Equestrian Center on North Euclid St., the home of one of the ten original horse clubs that started it all.

Since the first show, competition, judging and regulations have grown. This year the show will have 39 classes with a high point trophy for each day. On Saturday, there will be 21 Western classes, and on Sunday, 18 English classes. The show is a Class B Junior PCHJ and SHA rated as well as an "A" rating with the Los Angeles County Horse Show Exhibitors Association. Spectators are welcome.

The horsemen of Orange County have turned over $71,500 to the March of Dimes throughout the 21 years the horse show has been sponsored and expect to add more this year.

The first show 22 years ago had Dick Lane, the well-known television announcer as its Master of Ceremonies. The old timers all fondly refer to Dick as "Old Leather Britches". Records also show that Clint Brush performed at this first show with his trick horse, Silver, billed as the world's most educated horse. A ranch breakfast was served all day, consisting of scrambled eggs, hot cakes, bacon and coffee. The show has maintained its high interest level by attracting young Orange County exhibitors who demonstrate their abilities against exhibitors from all over Southern California.
